Dear Dr. Dra. Dewi Susanna, M.Kes

We would like to submit a new manuscript entitled "The Effect Of Health Promotion On The Knowledge And Interest Early Detection Of Cervical Cancer On Commercial Sex Worker" for consideration by the Kesmas: National Public Health Journal.

We confirm that this work is original and has neither been published elsewhere nor currently under consideration for publication elsewhere.

In this paper, we report on results of research about the effect of health promotion on commercial sex worker, especially about their knowledge and interest to do early detection of cervical cancer using visual inspection with acetic acid. This is significant because commercial sex worker is one of group who have high risk. The paper should be of interest to readers in public health study and specially in reproductive health study.

This research will be interesting because it was done on women commercial sex worker in one of villages in subang district, exactly in patimban village, where the location is near north beach and we call it as Pantura. As we know Pantura is one of locations where the incidence of HIV/AIDS is high. The women commercial sex worker in this area is high risk but they lack of attention, almost all of them are poorly educated so they need education about healthy life behavior. The results of this research show that health promotion can increase their knowledge and interest. After health promotion was given, almost all of them were interested to do early detection of cervical cancer and then the results of this study can be the basis for community service activities.

Please address all correspondence concerning this manuscript to me at desi.anas@yahoo.com
Thank you for your consideration of this manuscript.

Sincerely,

Desi Rusmiati
